Prologue:

In an alternate universe, there was an earth inhabited primarily by species of ducks. Although not much is known about how the planet was created, legend says that it all started with a singular being. Not much is known about where this being came from but this being is credited with creating the land now known to the duck inhabitants as the Duck Land. Eventually though, this being created two more beings, one to look over the heavens and another to look over the hells. The being lastly created the duck inhabitants and left them to not be looked over by anyone. After this the being disappeared and has since not returned but is worshiped by the duck people and is known as The Creator. The ducks first were known as yellow creatures with wings. As time went on they eventually evolved. They evolved into different colors and sub-species of ducks, as many ducks had to blend to different environments. As time went on technology would also advance. Eventually some ducks would evolve so much that they would become very different from the majority of the duck species. Some of these other ducks would be known as the geese. The geese lived peacefully among the ducks for centuries before they were harshly discriminated against due to their appearances. The geese had very long necks and were much taller than regular ducks which caused them to be viewed as outcasts by the majority of the duck population. On top of that they were generally messier which didn't sit well with the ducks. The conflict between the two species would soon result in the geese to grow angry and decide to build an army and attack the ducks. In the geese minds, if they could defeat the ducks they could control the Duck Land and wouldn't be discriminated against any longer. The geese army was initially successful in their plan as the duck army was uncoordinated and at a disadvantage due to the goose's physical stature and their ability to use magic. All hope seemed lost until the duck angels came to help the ducks. The duck angels were a group of peacekeeping warrior ducks that according to legend are descendants of the being that looks over the heavens. It is even theorized that the duck angels have heavenly energy that flows through their body and because of this they are stronger than the average duck. On top of that, legend says that the duck angels can possess special powers and abilities. The duck angels were able to even the battle for a moment, but the geese army had more soldiers overall than the angel ducks; and eventually only a handful of angel ducks were left as the geese army was closing in on a victory. That was until the angel ducks all together called out in a last ditch effort for the over looker of the heavens that The Creator made so many years ago. Together the remaining angel ducks chanted, "Duck God, Duck God". Sure enough the being that looked over the heavens, known as the Duck God appeared. At once the Duck God evaporated all of the geese on the battlefield, leaving only some to flee into hiding. Unfortunately, the damage was done and all but two angel ducks survived. Two babies with no one to look after them, were left stranded. Meanwhile, the ruler of the geese army survived. The ruler, known to her subjects as the Goose Queen, wanted nothing but to rule the Duck Land. She was so desperate to rule that she even found a way to contact the over looker of the hells that The Creator made. With her evil magic that the geese were rich in, the Goose Queen was able to bring this being to the Duck Land. This being was known as Satan Duck and loved the thought of war and chaos. The Goose Queen and Satan Duck eventually found themselves in a relationship where they would have a kid together. This half duck, half goose hybrid child wasn't any ordinary bird. He had the magic and strength of the geese, and the appearance and evil god energy of Satan Duck. This child was known as Devil Duck. Once Duck God appeared and ended the war, he made a treaty with Satan Duck that neither of them could interfere with Duck Land affairs just as The Creator had intended for them. As Goose Queen went into hiding she made sure to leave her baby Devil Duck with one instruction for when he was old enough. She left him a locket with a note inside that he would one day find. The Duck Land was peaceful for now with the war finally over. In the aftermath of the war the duck population reflected on how they treated the geese and realized their wrongs. With some geese still part of the population the ducks swore to treat everyone equal from now on as they would rebuild. So now with the Goose Queen and the geese army in hiding, Satan Duck back in hell not interfering, Duck God back in heaven not interfering, baby Devil Duck on his own, and the two remaining duck angels on their own; the real story begins! Here is the origins of the Duck Heroes...

Chapter 1: The Aftermath of the War - Year 1

In the first year after the war the Duck Land was in complete ruins. All the ducks though made a treaty for equality for all, as the ducks and geese and began to rebuild. Slowly but surely things would start to be fixed and look normal again. The Goose

Queen was in shambles. She had lost the war and about 80% of her army. On top of that, the love of her life, the almighty Satan Duck was gone. The Goose Queen was so in love with Satan Duck, which is why she unwillingly followed his orders in not looking after her son Devil Duck. Before Satan Duck left he made it clear that Devil Duck had to find his own way in life with ducks as he would not fit in living with geese and would grow up weak, being bullied every day. Satan Duck exclaimed that, "Our son will not be a soft fool... If you really want him to one day get revenge, he needs to grow up on his own. That will make him strong. He can't grow up being bullied and consoled. And besides... He has my blood and your blood, he will survive just fine". The Goose Queen wanted to keep her son really bad but trusted her loving partner Satan Duck. She would watch over him though without interfering until the time was right. She did make sure however, to leave her son with a locket around his neck with a note in it that he would see and read when the time was right. The Goose Queen had lost almost everything but she needed a plan. She was very advanced in magic, being a prodigy from a young age. Because of this she had discovered a way to keep herself ageless, to live on for a long time. She was also very powerful and knew that she had to develop a long term plan to rebuild her army, and to attack again when the time was right. She feared that there were still angel ducks out in the Duck Land. The first part of her plan was to build the goose kingdom, far in the outskirts of the Duck Land where no one would find it. Afterwards she would have to rebuild her army by breeding more geese, and training them in combat and magic. The Goose Queen was a generally impatient person but knew that this plan would take many years, and that she had to be patient for it to work. So she gathered her remaining troops and got to work.

Meanwhile, the baby Angel Ducks and baby Devil Duck remained alone and uncared for, with all three just crying in need of food as any baby would do. The Angel Ducks were especially loud as there were two of them together, and this attracted the attention of an old man duck. He was a caring man named Toro who lived by himself. When he found the Angel Ducks he said to himself, "oh gee, look at this... must really be my lucky day". He picked up the basket of the two babies and brought them back to his house. He always wanted to raise babies and he sat them in cribs at his house. The Angel Ducks stopped crying, as they finally had food and a nice crib to sleep in. Just as the Angel Ducks were falling asleep, Toro came back into the room and started talking to the babies, saying, "aren't you angels so cute! And guess what, I found you guys another brother who was also stranded. I found this one earlier today. It really is my lucky day. I now have three beautiful children. I hope you guys get along..." At that moment, Toro brought in the other crib. As the two Angel Ducks sat in their cribs, the third baby jumped out of his crib and onto the middle part between the two angel ducks cribs. The two Angel Ducks looked up to see their new brother. What they saw was a red duck baby with two little horn stubs coming out of its head. Toro saw this and exclaimed, "Oh get down from there you little fella" running over and putting the baby back in his crib. Although all three babies were infants and couldn't comprehend anything, little did the two Angel Ducks know that their other brother was none other than Devil Duck!

Chapter 2: A Villain is Born - Year 4

Around the age of three, Toro would enroll the three ducks into school where they would learn to read, write, and communicate. All three ducks were very bright. Toro made sure to raise the ducks to be nice and responsible, and for the most part it paid off. The Angel Ducks were a clear reflection of Toro as they did everything to care for others before themselves. Devil Duck also was a good child but did have signs of anger. Devil Duck would have instances of thinking with his emotions and becoming very angry. Regardless, Toro loved his three adopted children. The three ducks had no memory of when they were born and had just assumed that they were all Toro's real children. Toro didn't want to tell them yet about the way he had found them as he figured it would be better when they were older. Although the three ducks assumed they were all brothers they all quickly noticed the elephant in the room. The fact that the two angel ducks were white ducks and that Devil Duck was a red duck with horns. The difference in appearance was clear, and it made Devil Duck feel bad about himself. He felt like an outcast to his brothers at times, and even felt jealous that he wasn't the same as them. This was ironically the same reason that Satan Duck didn't want his son to live with the geese. But Satan Duck was stuck in Hell, and the Goose Queen was off looking over her empire. As time went on the three ducks could talk, write, and read perfectly, and that's when things would start to get sour.

The locket that the Goose Queen had given Devil Duck was still around his neck, and eventually he would open it and read it. The inside of the locket read, "The Angel Ducks are evil. You need to destroy them all to bring peace to this world before they take it over". Devil Duck was stunned, could his own brothers really be evil? Devil Duck had the locket for as long as he could remember and needed to get to the bottom of who gave it to him and wrote the message. So he went to the only person he could, his adopted father Toro. Devil Duck approached his dad one night while the two angel ducks were brushing their teeth and asked him, "Dad, how did I get this locket?" Toro responded by saying, "I gave it to you, my son". Obviously lying, Toro had no clue where the locket came from but assumed it was from whoever left Devil Duck, and he did not want him to know the truth. "It's a special locket that I gave you because you are unique, Dean". Toro named Devil Duck Dean, and wanted to make sure that he knew that he gave him the locket. Devil Duck believed his father's words, but what Toro didn't know was what was actually inside the locket. At that moment, Devil Duck realized that he had to do the unthinkable. He had to kill his brothers. Devil Duck didn't want to do it, he loved his brothers, but he did not want to disobey his father. So that night Devil Duck waited for his brothers to fall asleep so he could kill them. As both Angel Ducks laid fast asleep in their beds, Devil Duck stood up with a knife in his hand that he stole from the kitchen. He was reluctant to strike and stood for a moment with tears in his eyes. Finally, Devil Duck was ready to go through with the deed. He quietly said to himself, "I'm sorry, I love you". But before he could do anything, the door opened and Toro entered. Toro saw what was about to happen and ran over and knocked Devil Duck to the floor. "WHAT ARE YOU DOING SON?" He shouted, waking up both Angel Ducks. "But dad, you told me to..." Devil Duck rebutted before being interrupted. "What are you talking about? I would never tell you to kill your brothers, are you crazy?" Toro screamed back. At that moment anger started boiling up inside Devil Duck as he felt that his dad was lying to him and that his dad had called him crazy. "SHUT UP DAD " he shouted as a red aura came off from him and attacked Toro. The energy attack cut Toro's hand right off. In terrible pain Toro shouted, "Get out! Now! You monster". Devil Duck in tears replied, "I'm sorry dad, I didn't mean it". "I'm not your father, I never was, now get out and never come back!" shouted Toro. Devil Duck bolted out the door, never looking back. Toro sat in pain, but looked up and realized what he had done. The Angel Ducks were looking on in tears, as he just told his own son that he wasn't his dad. Toro ran out the door looking for his son but he was nowhere in sight. "What have I done?" Toro said to himself. The start of Devil Ducks path to evil had begun, even though all he ever wanted was love.

Chapter 3: Times are Changing - Through Year 12

Devil Duck never came back home to Toro, he lived on his own and grew up on his own. Even though he left home at age three, his genes of geese and god made him strong enough to survive and think on his own. Devil Duck traveled the Duck Land searching for the person who gave him the locket, hoping to find his parents. Devil Duck hated Toro and replayed the night he was kicked out in his head over and over again. Devil Duck just wanted to find his real parents and ask them what the locket actually meant. Devil Duck didn't have hate for his former brothers, the Angel Ducks. He felt that they were victims just like him, but he was conflicted and curious as to why the locket said that the Angel Ducks were evil. Devil Duck knew that was why he needed to find his real parents, so he could find the answers to all of this.

Meanwhile, Toro finally explained to the Angel Ducks the truth of everything. The morning after Devil Duck left, Toro sat down with his boys and calmly said to them, "Listen boys, there's something I need to tell both of you... the truth of everything; I am not actually your father". Both Angel Ducks gasped as confusion clouded them. Toro continued, "I found you both stranded in baskets as little infants, without anyone in sight. I took you as my own to raise... I am not your real father but cared for you two, you will always be my boys... your brother Dean was also an infant when I found him, he was stranded just like you two and was pretty close to where I found you guys". Both Angel Ducks were still shocked but continued to listen. Toro paused but then continued, "I failed Dean, and I don't want to do the same to you two... You boys are special, there used to be a legend about the mighty Angel Ducks..." The boys looked up and questioned, "Angel Ducks?" Toro nodded and continued, "Yes the Angel Ducks were a group of peace keeping ducks with very strong powers and will, they disappeared years ago but I am very sure that you two are of the Angel Duck species... You boys have great potential, and above all great will to keep peace in the Duck Land... I love you boys and I will do everything in my power not to fail you like I did to Dean..." Toro stopped talking and started crying. The Angel Ducks consoled and hugged their father. Now they knew the truth, and accepted what their duty to the Duck Land was.

As the years went on the Angel Ducks continued to be raised by Toro, while Devil Duck still ventured on his own. Devil Duck eventually made it to the mountains of the Duck Land. As Devil Duck was walking around he found a cave that had a dim light coming from it. He went inside and as he got closer and closer heard a faint sound. Finally he came to the source of the light which was a fire and saw an old duck sitting there. The old man got up and said, "I've been expecting you, young one". Devil Duck stopped and asked, "What do you mean". The Old man's face changed from serious to laughing as he said, "I'm just kidding, I heard your footsteps... what brings you here....oh...oh wow". The old man closed his eyes as if he was sensing something. "Young man, I sense great power from you, who are you?" The old man said, still with his eyes closed. "I don't know who I am or who my parents are," Devil Duck answered. "I sense great power in you son, let me teach you the mystic art of magic, an ancient practice in the duck land... I can sense the ability and power in you" The old man said. Devil Duck paused looking confused. Before he could answer, the old man said, "C'mon Red, I've never felt this potential in anyone, and who knows after I teach you, maybe you will be able to find your parents". Devil Ducks eyes lit up as he responded saying, "alright, when do I start?"

Chapter 4: The Introduction to Magic - Through Year 30

Many years have passed as both the Duck Angels and Devil Duck have grown. Both Devil Duck and the Angel Ducks can live for thousands of years due their godly genes. Devil Duck lived in the caves of the Duck Land mountains with the old man, learning the secrets of his magic. The old man revealed himself as a wizard, one of the last of his kind, named Norton. Devil Duck learned a lot from Norton, such as how to focus, meditate, and be strong. Norton even explained how magic is so powerful that it can even be used on beings such as gods. Norton became the father figure to Devil Duck that he lost with Toro. Devil Duck's mission of finding his real parents was forgotten as he became content and at peace living with Norton. When it came to learning magic, Devil Duck realized how hard and how much training it took to be good at it. He was able to learn a lot about magic, such as using spells, being able to levitate things, and even being able to manipulate energy. However, it was hard for Devil Duck to use these new powers at will, Norton explained that mastering these powers take lots of time and even requires intense meditation and mental training to fully master. One day though Devil Duck woke up and Norton was nowhere to be found. Devil Duck walked out to the top of the mountain where Norton was meditating. Devil Duck sensed grief, he asked Norton what was wrong. Norton turned around and smiled with a tear coming down his face as he said, "Red, my son... my time has come. You have become a well young man... don't forget my teachings, you are very powerful... but above all don't forget to find your purpose in life... we all have one..." Norton closed his eyes and fell to the ground as he passed away. Devil Duck was crushed, he was again alone without any father figure. He knew that Norton was right about him having a purpose, but had no clue where to begin to find it. Sadness and anger swallowed him, as Devil Duck would fall into a deep depression.

While all this was happening the Angel Ducks were living a much happier and peaceful life. They had both graduated college and had grown up. The Angel Ducks were ready to move out into the Duck Land, but before they could their father Toro wanted to tell them something. Toro pulled the two aside looking at them very proudly and said, "I am so proud of what you boys have become and I know whatever you guys end up doing will benefit the world. You boys have a much greater purpose in life and I know that you will find it. I just have one last request, and it pertains to your other brother. It has haunted me every night about what happened, your brother isn't evil, he is just misguided. I know he is still out there too, please find him and bring peace back to him, I know there is still good in him". The Angel Ducks looked at each other and responded, "We understand dad, and we will do it". Toro chimed in again, "but wait one more thing, the world can be scary and I want you two to be prepared for anything that comes your way". He gave them a note that had a map on it. "This map is how to get to my brother, your uncle, Uncle Bryant. Your uncle is a historian and martial artist. He will train you two to defend yourself, and may have insight on your angel duck history and potential powers. Take care my sons, I will see you again one day. I love you two dearly". Toro hugged the two Angel Ducks. The Angel Ducks were ready and more determined as ever. They acknowledged their purpose, and would fulfill their dads wish.

Chapter 5: The Lost Uncle - Through Year 50

It took the Angel Ducks a while to venture through the Duck Land to find their uncle but eventually in the depths of the swamps they found him. At first Uncle Bryant was very hostile and ready to attack the Angel Ducks, but once they explained who they were and that Toro sent them, he smiled, hugged them, and made them food. Uncle Bryant had lived on his own for years. Uncle Bryant explained how he was once a soldier and how he fought in war. Bryant didn't explain much about the war to the Angel Ducks, and didn't mention the Geese, but he did mention how he fought alongside many angel ducks. Uncle Bryant explained that the angel ducks were a noble, strong, and peaceful race of ducks, but that he thought they all went extinct. Uncle Bryant told the boys that they were most likely the last remaining Angel Ducks and that it was important for them to keep the traditions and duties of the angel ducks before them alive. Uncle Bryant taught the two various forms of martial arts. It was hard for Bryant to tell the two apart so he identified them as Angel Duck One and Two. Angel Duck Two was a much better fighter than Angel Duck One. Two was very advanced in martial arts and was tougher when it came to fighting. One however, was much more spiritual in his training. Uncle Bryant realized this and decided to make the two focus on the skill that they were better at. One became upset that he wasn't a good fighter, so Bryant pulled him aside one day to explain to him why it wasn't a big deal. Bryant said to One, "Look kid, you may think it's a bad thing that you can't fight as well as your brother but it's not at all a bad thing. Being spiritual is even more important than physical combat. One day it may even decide a battle or a war. Your brother is not mentally ready for this kind of training, and once you master this I want you to eventually teach your brother, do you understand?" One seemed better and understood his uncle, but asked him what he meant by "spiritual" and what techniques he was going to learn. Uncle Bryant explained, saying, "kid you angel ducks have special powers inside of you. It is hard for me to explain as even I don't know everything about it. If you can learn to unlock those powers you would be unstoppable in the battle against evil. However, since you and I don't know a lick about that, I'm going to teach you something I do know. One of my old war buddies who was an angel duck named Nero learned how to communicate with the dead. Basically he learned a way to transcend death. He explained to me that it is very hard and requires the sharpest mind. Even I can't do it, but I know that you can. I will teach you everything he taught me so that one day you can unlock this ability". One wiped his last remaining tear and smiled in confidence. He was more determined as ever to learn this ability.

As the Angel Ducks trained, Devil Duck spiraled into depression and anger. During this time he had no one and lived alone. He didn't even care about his real parents anymore. The voice of Norton telling him he had a purpose echoed in his head still, but he had no motivation to find it. Anger continued to fill Devil Duck day by day.

The happiness and good that once filled him was almost completely gone. Devil Duck was on the verge of falling completely over the edge of sanity... if only the Angel Ducks knew.

Chapter 6: Attack of the Penguins - Through Year 75

As the Angel Ducks complete their training, and as Devil Duck slowly is spiraling into madness... an even greater danger looms. Throughout all this time the Goose Queen had been nonstop rebuilding her kingdom. Through the last couple of decades Goose Queen traveled away from the Duck Land to find and recruit all of the Geese that she could find, while breeding even more geese to fill her kingdom and army. She also made sure to recruit ducks such as bounty hunters, and warriors. The Goose Queen would time and time again use her magic orb to check up on Devil Duck, but would just check to see if he was alive. She rarely checked on his wellbeing or to see what he was doing. She never even knew that for a short period of time he was living amongst the last remaining Angel Ducks... in fact she didn't even know that there were surviving angel ducks. Goose Queen's plans were to rebuild her army and take over the duck land. She knew that no ducks could stand in her way unless the angel ducks returned. However, something caught Goose Queen's attention and it wasn't the last remaining Angel Ducks. A messenger had notified her that a Penguin army was quickly approaching the Duck Land on an iceberg. The Penguins were another sub species of duck. The Penguins were discriminated against and outcast out of the duck land by both the ducks and the geese, before the Duck-Geese war even began. They must've finally come back to regain the Duck Land thought Goose Queen, similarly to what the geese were planning to do. Goose Queen knew she had to stop this as this would foil her plan. Goose Queen checked her orb and realized that the penguin's iceberg that was traveling towards The Duck Land was going to dock right by where Devil Duck was residing in the wilderness. Goose Queen was confident in Devil Ducks ability to defeat the Penguins as she was the one who ordered Norton to meet Devil Duck and teach him magic! To be sure that Devil Duck would succeed though she ordered to send her best duck assassin, Ninja Duck to go and help Devil Duck in his upcoming battle. Goose Queen couldn't risk sending a goose or even herself out in public, as it would expose her plans.

The Angel Ducks during this time were completing their training with Uncle Bryant. Two had become a very good fighter and was advanced in many styles. One on the other hand learned to fight enough to hold his own, but had also mastered the art of meditation. One was also able to briefly speak to Bryant's old angel duck friend Nero. Nero told One that he knew One and Two's parents and that they all died gracefully in war. One asked, "What happened in this war?" Nero responded with, "I don't have enough time to explain that to you, what's important is that you have this ability now, it will be important for any future conflicts you have. Stay close to your brother. You two are the key to peace in our land. You are the last remaining angel ducks, it is your job to keep peace in the world. Don't tell your brother about this, when the time is right you will tell him, and you will know when the time is right. Goodbye for now". Nero then disappeared. One wanted to ask him more things but knew what he had to do. Uncle Bryant told the two that he had taught them all that he knew, and that they should now be going to help find their lost brother. Uncle Bryant told the two that he was going to venture out of the Duck Land to explore the world they lived in. Bryant hugged the two and said, "If I don't see you boys ever again, just know you have made me proud. I am confident that you two will hold peace in the Duck Land. Trust in yourself and trust in each other. Goodbye my nephews". The Angel Ducks then begin their search for Devil Duck.

The Penguins landed on the Duck Land as a giant thud sounded off when their iceberg collided with the Duck Land. This woke up Devil Duck who was sleeping in a cave that was right outside where the Penguins had landed. Emperor Penguin, as he called himself, marched off the iceberg first as he planted a flag and shouted, "Hear me, hear me, as I... The Mighty Emperor Penguin declare this land to now be owned by the Penguin Empire". Devil Duck walked out of his cave to see what the commotion was as he saw the Penguin army. There were only around fifty soldiers overall and the only weapons they seemed to have were ice balls. As the Penguin Army saw Devil Duck come out of the cave, Emperor Penguin asked, "Who goes there?" Devil Duck responded by saying, "Hi my name is Red..." Emperor Penguin interrupted him by saying, "It doesn't matter what your name is, this is my land now so kneel before me or face the wrath of my army". Devil Duck had no tolerance to put up with this so immediately charged right for the Penguin army. Emperor Penguin smiled as he yelled, "ATTACK!!!" The Penguin army charged at Devil Duck. Even though they were big in numbers the army wasn't impressive at all. Devil Duck was able to fight them off one by one. Devil Duck wasn't able to use his magic as he still couldn't control it without the help of Norton. Although Devil Duck was convincingly beating the penguins he started to get out numbered. Emperor Penguin started to laugh and exclaimed, "The little duck is outnumbered, what are you going to do now? You devilish looking creature, you will be a great snack for us, KILL HIM NOW!" Suddenly, the Angel Ducks appeared out of nowhere and started fighting the penguins. Devil Duck and the Angel Ducks were reunited and they were fighting together to beat the penguins. Once again though the penguins started out numbering the three. Emperor Penguin started laughing again but before he could get a word out, Ninja Duck appeared to help the fight. The Ninja Duck sent by Goose Queen was the most skilled assassin in the Duck Land; he was taking on 3-5 penguins at a time and killing them with his hand to hand combat and katana. In very quick time the only surviving penguin was Emperor Penguin who had tried to retreat to the iceberg. However, the Angel Ducks, Devil Duck, and Ninja Duck circled him. Emperor Penguin knew he had no chance so he surrendered. He pleaded for mercy saying, "please just let me live, I'll do anything just please". Ninja Duck then stepped forward and said, "There will be no mercy today". Ninja Duck put his sword up in the air ready to strike down Emperor Penguin... until Angel Duck two yelled, "Wait! You can't kill him, he surrendered. Let's take him to jail where he will stand for his crimes". Ninja Duck pushed Angel Duck two and exclaimed, "Absolutely not, my job was to come here and kill this threat. I do not break promises". While Ninja Duck was arguing with the Angel Ducks, Emperor Penguin pulled a knife out of his pocket and stabbed Ninja Duck right through the chest. Ninja Duck fell to his death, but before Emperor Penguin could do anymore damage, Devil Duck yelled in anger as he unleashed his magic and blew up Emperor Penguin to oblivion. After Devil Duck did this he fell, realizing he used his magic but that it drained his energy. The Angel Ducks went to check on Devil Duck but he quickly got up and pushed the two off him. “What is wrong with you guys, that penguin deserved to die and you let him live, and then he just killed that Ninja who helped us. You two are naive, stupid, and pathetic... why are you even here”. Devil Duck exclaimed. “We are here for you, dad wanted us to find you so we can help you” Two said. “You two don’t care about me, you’re only here because that monster wants you to. And that monster isn’t your dad, he isn’t mine either” Devil Duck rebutted back. “Please Dean, come home we miss you” One replied back. “I am not Dean, don’t call me that... These penguins said I looked like a devil, that I was a devil duck. So call me that, that’s my name... that is what I’ve been my whole life. I have always been the villain even when I tried not to be. I’ve always been a villain in everyone’s eyes including you two. I still don’t even know who my real parents are, but I do know that they warned me about you two. They warned me about the Angel Ducks and told me that I need to rid the world of you. This is your last warning, I won’t fight you now but if you cross my path again you will leave me no other option than to fight” Devil Duck exclaimed angrily. Suddenly, Devil Ducks’ voice began to cackle and even become raspy, his eyes turned a bright red too as he said, “I don’t want to ever see you two or our lousy joke of a father ever again. You want to know what my name is, you want to know who I am? I am not your brother, I am not your friend, I am the Devil Duck... now step aside”! Devil Duck bolted away as the two Angel Ducks just watched. Two was ready to run after him but One exclaimed, “stop brother, let him be... he is too angry right now, we will find him again soon”. “But he said he will fight us and kill us if he sees us again” Two said. “There is still good in him I sense it, and we made a promise to dad, there is still hope” One replied. But not even One fully believed what he was telling Two. Only time would tell.

Chapter 7: Thy Kingdom Come - Through Year 90

The Devil Duck has been unleashed on the Duck Land. Devil Duck finally realized his purpose like Norton told him all those years ago. He was a villain just as everyone had painted him as. Devil Duck traveled to the capital of the Duck Land, Mallard City. Devil Duck didn't want to hurt the Angel Ducks even though his locket said he should. He still had a small connection to his former brothers. But Devil Duck was now ready to take over the world to control it his way. The Duck Land was ruled by King Duck III, and Devil Duck knew that he had to take him out to secure power over the Duck Land. Indirectly, this fit right into Goose Queen's plans as she needed to take out the Duck King if she wanted her Goose Kingdom to take over the Duck Land. Devil Duck was ready to execute his plan but knew he needed some henchmen if he wanted to take down the Duck Army that guarded the king. Devil Duck searched around town until he found the adoption center. There he snuck into the back where the teenagers were. Devil Duck then spotted a huge duck, one that was even bigger than him. He had a brother that was much smaller than him, but the big duck wasn't as bright, while the little one was very smart. Devil Duck realized that the combination of brains and brawns would help him on the mission. He asked them if they would aid him in his plan to take down the kingdom, and they agreed as long as they could leave the adoption center. The little duck's name was Chip, while the big duck was named Oswald.

Devil Duck devised a plan where Chip would go to the front of the kingdom and tell the guard that he lost his parents, Chip would then lead them to the alley by the kingdom where Oswald would take out the guards. Chip and Oswald would then take the guards' clothes and escort Devil Duck into the kingdom to the King. The plan worked like a charm. As they were walking up the stairs and past the other guards, Devil Duck whispered to them, "excellent this is going right as planned, once we get up there you will take out any of the remaining guards, Oswald. As you do this I will go and take out the King". Oswald then shouted back, "Okay Devil Duck I'll beat up all the other guards, it's cool being a fake guard and sneaking into the kingdom like this"! Oswald shouted this so loud that all the guards around them heard it and went to attack them. "Good going you dumbass they all heard you" Chip exclaimed. "You've got to be kidding me you idiot" Devil Duck said. "I'm really sorry guys I didn't realize" Oswald said back. The guards were charging so the only thing they could do was fight. Oswald and Devil Duck fought off the guards as Chip hid in the corner. News alerts all over the Duck Land alerted that an intruder named Devil Duck along with two companions were storming the Duck Kingdom. Goose Queen saw this on the news and smiled in joy as this would help her plans for her kingdom. The Angel Ducks also saw this on the news and quickly began to rush towards Millard City to stop Devil Duck.

Chapter 8: The Devil Unleashed - Through Year 90 Part 2

The guards at the duck kingdom are some of the most skilled and trained ducks in the whole world, but unfortunately for them, they don't have the genes of a god and a geese like Devil Duck has. The guards were able to contain Oswald after he knocked out some guards but Devil Duck took all of them out. The trio of Devil Duck, Oswald and Chip marched all the way up to the king's chambers, with Devil Duck taking out all guards in his way. Devil Duck finally got into the chambers where he was face to face with King Duck III. The King had a sword in hand, his blue Amethyst blade. "Well well well what do we have here" Devil Duck said. "This is my kingdom now, I will rule the world and kill anyone I have to, to bring peace and security to my new empire eh ha ha ha ha" Devil Duck proclaimed while laughing maniacally. "So be it Devil, I will fight to the death to protect my kingdom and this land" King Duck III said as he charged at Devil Duck. "Here, catch this Devil Duck" Chip yelled as he tossed Devil Duck an iron sword from off the wall. The two clashed at each other in an epic sword battle. King Duck III had the much superior sword, but Devil Duck was stronger and more skilled. The clash was about even until Oswald threw a stone that was on the ground at King Duck III which made him fall to the ground. His sword fell out of his hands too. Devil Duck stood above him ready to kill while saying, "Any last words King". "We have some" said both Angel Ducks as they bolted through the door and attacked Devil Duck and knocked him back. "You fools, what did I tell you would happen if you crossed my path again, now you will both die" Devil Duck shouted as he picked up the sword and started swinging at them. Both Angel Duck jumped out of the way as Two picked up the sword from the King who was still knocked out on the floor. Two started sword fighting with Devil Duck. Unlike the King, Two was very strong and very skilled as he began to overpower Devil Duck. As this was going on Chip and Oswald came face to face with One. "Where do you think you're going?" Chip said. "Ha ha yeah it's time to eat some duck" Oswald said. "Uh Oswald you idiot we are ducks too, eating him would make us cannibals" Chip said back in an annoyed tone. "Oh you're right... well we will still beat you up" Oswald exclaimed back. One was out numbered but remembered his training from Uncle Bryant. He had to outsmart the two. "You want to kill me, well you will have to catch me first" said One. One started running around the King's chambers as Two and Devil Duck were still sword fighting. As One was running around he realized that right by the Kings chair there was a trap door, with a button to open it on the king's chair. One ran and jumped onto the King's chair, as Chip and Oswald went right in front of the chair and right on top of the trap door. "We got you now" exclaimed Chip. "Oh do you?" said One as he pressed the button and the trapped door open, sending Chip and Oswald into the jail chamber below. The fight between Two and Devil Duck continued. It was back and forth action as both ducks had the upper hand at points in the fight. Eventually though, Two's skill along with his superior sword knocked Devil Ducks sword out of his hand. Devil Duck was helpless as One picked up Devil Ducks sword and they were ready to strike him. But before they could they realized that they can't. He's helpless and there is still time to bring him back the two thought. "Devil Duck, please this doesn't have to be the way. We are brothers still, you are not gone yet, just please come with us and we will make things right" One said. Devil Duck looked up as a tear ran down his face. Before Devil Duck could respond a noise came from the entrance of the chamber. It was Toro. "My sons oh how I am so happy to see you all, I thought it might be too late" Toro said. Toro approached the boys and extended his arm out to Devil Duck who was still on the ground. "My son, Dean, please there is still time to be good again. I'm sorry for all I did those years ago, just please take my hand" Toro said with a smile on his face. Devil Duck replied and said, "I'm sorry too... I'm sorry that you had to come face to face with me again!" Devil Duck got up and blasted a beam of energy out of his mouth, killing Toro in one shot. Devil Duck again used his magic as his anger rose to an all-time high. "And for the last time my name is not Dean, I am the Devil Duck, and I will destroy the whole world!". The angel ducks sat in shock as Devil Duck jumped out the window of the kingdom and escaped, running as far as he could. The Angel Ducks mourned the loss of their father Toro. They knew he had good intentions and valued everything he taught them. When the King woke up he was grateful for what the Angel Ducks did for him. He gifted Two his blue Amethyst blade for defeating Devil Duck. When the guards checked on the trap door jail they noticed a hole in the wall where Chip and Oswald must've escaped. The Duck Kingdom thanked the Angel Ducks for their heroics. The Angel Ducks knew that Devil Duck was now too far gone and that they could not bring him back to good; they knew that they needed to stop him. But they agreed they would not kill him as that is not the way that angel ducks before them would have gone about it. The Duck Land was safe for now but Devil Duck and his adopted brothers were still on the loose. The Angel Ducks fully realized their purpose, they were the protectors of the duck land and they were ready to fight.

Epilogue

Devil Duck is still on the run, he still doesn't know how to use his magic as it has only come out in times where he is fully angry. But he is slowly learning, especially when he is alone and can meditate. Goose Queen saw all over the news what the outcome was of Devil Ducks attempt to take over the Duck Kingdom. She was shocked to see that some angel ducks were still alive, and now knew that she has to stop them before she can reclaim the duck land. Goose Queen now is going to start keeping much closer tabs on Devil Duck and the Angel Ducks through her magic orb. Goose Queen now tells her newly married husband the Goose King to be ready soon as they have bigger issues on their hands now. Chip and Oswald are also on the run but have not met up with Devil Duck yet.

The Angel Ducks are now on their way to find the Devil Duck. They are the last remaining Angel Ducks. On their way to find the Devil Duck they ran into a fire fighter. "Oh hello I'm fireman duck, I heard you're trying to find the Devil Duck, I'll help" says the firefighter. The Angel Ducks look at each other and smile as the formation of the Duck Heroes and the long battle with Devil Duck is about to begin.

Thank you to the fans of Duck Heroes

This series has evolved so much since the first movie was made

It has been a blast reviving the series and adding so much lore to the franchise

If this is the end of Duck Heroes, it has truly been an honor

Never say never though...

Thank you to all the people who have helped along the way including creator Nick Mania and

A Prequel to the world famous Duck Heroes Franchise Films

The Duck Heroes that everyone knows and love have been teaming up and saving the day for a long time. But how did they originate? In Duck Heroes 1 the Angel Ducks are trying to find and stop Devil Duck, but why? This Novel is a prequel to the events of Duck Heroes 1, and tells the story of how the Angel Ducks and Devil Duck became the ducks we know from the movies. From their upbringing, to conflicts, to everything in between. Here is the origins of the Duck Heroes!

Author Anthony Mania has written many classic novels and series from the TIM TIM franchise, the Video Game Land Franchise, the Mr. Tootsie roll franchise, "I'm Sorry Dad", "The Fat Turkey", "Frankenstein and the Party", and many more. Anthony Mania also wrote, directed, and starred (as every character) in Duck Heroes movies 3-5!
